PROFESSOR IAN O. WILLIAMSON is the Pro-Vice Chancellor and Dean of the Business School at Victoria University, Wellington. Professor Williamson's research focuses on how the development of effective "talent pipelines" can enhance organisational and community outcomes. In particular, his research focuses on how human and social capital influences firm operational and financial outcomes, talent management in the context of new ventures and growth-oriented firms, the role of human resource practices in driving firm innovation and the impact of social issues on firm outcomes.
